Policy Statement

The University System of Georgia (USG) is committed to the highest ethical and professional standards of conduct in pursuit of its mission to create knowledge. The USG promotes an atmosphere of professionalism based upon mutual trust and our Core Values of Integrity, Excellence, Accountability, and Respect.

The professionalism and mutual trust of the workplace is compromised when employees who hold positions of unequal power engage in amorous relationships. The same is true for faculty members, to include graduate teaching assistants, who have amorous relationships with students they teach or evaluate or whose terms of education or employment they could directly affect. Such relationships create inherent conflicts of interest and lead to complaints of favoritism, decreased employee morale, mistrust by colleagues, complaints of undue access and, claims of sexual harassment, and other negative implications for the work environment. Accordingly, Board of Regents' (BOR) Policy 8.2.18.6 Amorous Relationships prohibits amorous relationships as follows:

A University System of Georgia (USG) employee, including a graduate teaching assistant, is prohibited from having romantic or sexual relationship with any student or USG employee who the individual supervises, teaches, or evaluates in any way. Additionally, a USG employee is prohibited from having romantic or sexual relationship with any student or USG employee whose terms or conditions of education or employment the individual could directly affect.

This policy reinforces the Board's and the USG's commitment to providing a professional environment for all USG employees and students.
